person and website
prioritize and avoid branding and footprints public domain and creative commons
A warm welcome and many thanks for being here. This blog “L2T2L” is an initialism for “learning to teach to learn,” the learner-centered and experiential philosophy that drives my own teaching and learning practices. This teaching philosophy can be traced back to the Letters to Lucilius written by Seneca in the first century AD. Please return to continue the journey and share your own wisdom and experiences of teaching and learning. It is a space, “not for the many, but for you” (attributed to Epicurus by Seneca).